"Social connection is critical to everyone around the world," said Pete O'Dell, CEO of Perdata.ai. "We've put together an easy to use, no cost way for individuals and organizations to connect people face to face based on their common interests while also enabling a privacy option."

Connection to more friends and community efforts will have a positive impact on your personal life, your community and the world”

Peter O'Dell

“In a world where digital noise is everywhere, the most meaningful human connections still happen face to face.” said Johan Wikman, CTO at Perdata.ai. “With the Friendship Event Kit, we’re using technology to ease warm introductions. That’s where the real impact and scalability can help drive connections.”

Friendship Events can be held at community spaces like libraries, outdoors in parks, in restaurants/bars, businesses, in private homes or anywhere else where people gather and interact.

The underlying Conexus platform that enables matching in the Friendship Event Kit is designed to give organizations the ability to connect participants in communities and at events based on shared interests, experiences and travel profiles. Anonymity is preserved until a face-to-face meeting between participants. The platform people and organization friendly, focused, privacy protecting, non-addictive and ad free.

Organizers can download the Friendship Event Kit at friendshipevent.com which includes the ability to host events using Conexus for up to 100 people at no cost. Research indicates friends are one of the keys to longevity and long term happiness.
